RESOURCES

The Geriatric Advisory Council (GAC) is a group of business professionals and service providers focused on elder care issues.

We provide this information freely to organizations and individuals along with referrals to resources and service providers in your local area.

RESOURCES FROM THE GAC

PANEL DISCUSSION

Three of our licensed professionals will come to your organization's location. Each will make a 10-minute presentation on their specific area of expertise, and will be available for general follow up questions and optionally for one-to-one meetings. Additional service providers may accompany them to showcase options for allowing your loved one to age at home gracefully or other transitional services that they might find helpful.

We will provide printed materials including a preparedness questionnaire, handouts from the group to refer to later and information about the latest and greatest programs, products, and services available.

"LUNCH 'N LEARN" TALK

The perfect way to keep your organization up-to-date without taking up valuable time! A licensed professional will come to your organization's location during the lunch hour to make a presentation on their specific area of expertise, focused on creating awareness. Help your employees avoid the stress caused by dealing with the emergent issues of elder care...while helping you prevent unnecessary absences and productivity loss.

RESOURCE TABLE

We will setup a resource table at your next event that will showcase options for allowing your loved one to age at home gracefully or other transitional services that they might find helpful.
